On the commodities front, Brent Crude Oil rose 6.7% MoM to USD66.82/bbl on supply concerns while CPO price declined 7.7% to RM2,121 per metric ton. Market Outlook

Macro conditions have improved somewhat, given a more dovish tone coming out of the US Federal Reserve. However, risk still remain with regards to growth in China and the outcome of US-China negotiations. While China and the US has agreed to extend the timeline for negotiations, uncertainty remains over whether they can bridge massive differences over commercial practices and intellectual property rights.

Corporate earnings have been uninspiring; hence we focus on stock picking for outperformance regardless of sector. Despite the rebound so far, we still see value in the small cap space, given the sharp decline last year.

1. Market Risk

Market risk stems from the fact that there are other economy-wide perils, which threaten all businesses. It is mainly caused by uncertainties in the economy, political and social environment.

3. Credit Risk

This refers to the possibility that the issuer of a security will not be able to make timely payments of interest or principal repayment on the maturity date. The default may lead to a fall in the value of the funds.

4. Interest Rate Risk

The level of interest rates has an impact on the value of investments. Any increase in rates will lead to a fall in the value of securities, thus affecting the value of the funds.

5. Country Risk

Basis of Unit Valuation

- The assets of every fund are to be valued to determine the value at which units of a particular fund can be liquidated or purchased for investment purposes.
- The unit price of a unit of a fund shall be determined by the Company but in any event shall not be less than the value of fund of the relevant fund (as defined below), divided by the number of units of the given fund in issue on the business day before the valuation date, and the result adjusted to the nearest one hundredth of a cent.
- The maximum value of any asset of any fund shall not exceed the following price:
 - The last transacted market price at which those assets could be purchased or sold on the business day before the valuation date; or
 - In the case of securities for which market values are not readily available, the price at which, in our Investment Manager's opinion, the asset may have been purchased on the business day before the valuation date; plus any expenses which would have been incurred in its acquisition.
- To ensure fair treatment to all unit holders, the cost of acquiring and disposing of assets is recouped by making a transaction cost adjustment to the net asset value per unit.
