Market Review, Outlook & Strategy relevant to Target Fund

US equities tumbled in October as the COVID-19 pandemic took a turn for the worse especially in US and Europe. Rising coronavirus cases are forcing some countries to impose back targeted lockdowns putting a dent to a smooth economic recovery. Meanwhile, the US goes to the polls in November with millions of Americans casting their ballots. Latest polls suggest that Democrat candidate Joe Biden is still leading the election race. Stock markets appear to be warming up to a Biden presidency with expectations of higher fiscal stimulus spending and less erratic policies. It is currently also earnings season with 65.0% of companies in the S&P500 index having already reported results. Of the companies that have released results, close to 90.0% of them beat expectations. On an overall basis, earnings came 19% above estimates on average.

On the domestic front, the benchmark KLCI stayed weak closing 2.5% lower last month as further political intrigue and drama dampened sentiment. This followed reports that Prime Minister Tan Sri Muhyiddin Yassin had proposed a state of emergency which would lead to the suspension of the Parliament and the administration of the country to be managed by the executive. Political commentators argue that the real reason for calling a state of emergency is due to the government's fear of not being able to pass the Budget 2021 when it is slated to be tabled on 6 November 2020, which would result in the dissolution of Parliament and pave the way for snap elections. After a meeting with the Conference of Rulers, the Yang di-Pertuan Agong ("YDPA") announced that there was no need to enforce a state of emergency. In a statement from the palace, the YDPA further stressed that the upcoming Budget 2021 is important for the country's battle with the COVID-19 pandemic and restoring the country's economy. Our base-case is for the federal budget to be passed in Parliament despite political wrangling by various parties. This follows a royal advice by the Yang di-Pertuan Agong who had urged all member of parliaments to support the federal budget.

Basis of Unit Valuation

- The assets of every fund are to be valued to determine the value at which units of a particular fund can be liquidated or purchased for investment purposes.
- The unit price of a unit of a fund shall be determined by the Company but in any event shall not be less than the value of fund of the relevant fund (as defined below), divided by the number of units of the given fund in issue on the business day before the valuation date, and the result adjusted to the nearest one hundredth of a cent.
- The maximum value of any asset of any fund shall not exceed the following price:
  - The last transacted market price at which those assets could be purchased or sold on the business day before the valuation date; or
  - In the case of securities for which market values are not readily available, the price at which, in our Investment Manager's opinion, the asset may have been purchased on the business day before the valuation date; plus any expenses which would have been incurred in its acquisition.
- To ensure fair treatment to all unit holders, the cost of acquiring and disposing of assets is recouped by making a transaction cost adjustment to the net asset value per unit.
